Will trace obscene phone calls

General Telephone customers who are plagued by obscene or harassing telephone calls now can unmask and prosecute the offenders.

Charles K. Corbett, the company's security director, said General has special call tracing equipment known as "called party control plugs" available in most central office switching centers in its Indiana territory and has been using the equipment successfully in cooperation with law enforcement agencies.

"In cases where a customer repeatedly receives obscene, threatening, or harassing telephone calls, the 'called party control plugs' can be used upon request by local law enforcement officials to trace the origin of the calls," Corbett said.

He said use of the call tracing equipment has resulted in police apprehension of several of the anonymous nuisance callers. The equipment is used only at the specific request of law enforcement agencies following the filing of a complaint by a victim of the calls.

Corbett explained that the "called party control plug" is installed on the line of the person receiving the nuisance calls. It locks the circuit to the phone from which the call is being made so that the connection is maintained after the caller has hung up. Upon receiving such a call the customer merely leaves his phone off the hook and uses another phone to notify the telephone company. The call then is traced and the proper law enforcement agency is notified immediately.

Action against the offender then is the responsibility of the complainant and the law enforcement agency. Corbett pointed out that Indiana statutes provide criminal penalties for persons convicted of making harassing, obscene or threatening calls.

Jaycees plan Park Week fund drive

The Greencastle Jaycees recently made plans for Community Park Week, May 20 through 25th.

South Viet passes bill

SAIGON (UPI)—The House of Representatives Friday passed a general mobilization law which calls all South Vietnamese males between 16 and 50 into some type of military service. The vote was 92-3 with 40 members absent.

The measure went to the Senate, which must take action within 48 hours.

The house bill was proposed by President Nguyen Van Thieu during the Tet offensive in January.

It makes eligible for the draft all men between 18 and 38, and provides service in armed self defense corps for boys between 16 and 17 and men between 39 and 50.

The special week is designed to raise enough funds to complete the new park this summer. The dam and lake, a main portion of the park, were built last fall. The ten acre lake is completely full, and is to be stocked with fish soon.

But, the big problem is to buy the rock so that the road can be built across the dam and to the new parking lot. To build the new road this year is a necessity if the park is to be completed, because the equipment needed to build the recreation area, shelter house, rest rooms, and picnic sites cannot get into the park without having a good gravel road.

Thus the Jaycees and their helpers will be canvassing the entire city and township of Greencastle to collect a "dollar for your park." The community park fund campaign will be completed Saturday, May 25th by the Jaycees taking over the Clark Co. Gas Station all day with all the profits going to the new park.

Bainbridge club will mark 25th anniversary

The Bainbridge Community Service Club, a Homemakers Club affiliated with the Putnam County extension service, will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary on

Mrs. Boesen is chairman

One hundred and twenty-five librarians and library trustees attended the District III Library Conference at the Lebanon Public Library on Monday, May 8th. Mrs. Eric Boesen, trustee of the Greencastle-Putnam County Public Library was elected Chairman for the year 1968-1969; Mrs. Lucille Washburn was elected Vice-Chairman and Allen Faust was chosen as Secretary-Treasurer.

The Lebanon Public Library has recently been remodeled and redecorated and the visitors spent a very enjoyable time going over the library and admiring the improved quarters and new decor.

After a morning of concentrated study on extending service and library legislation, the group enjoyed a delicious luncheon at the Lebanon Country Club.

The afternoon offered a welcome change when Richard Crowder, author, discussed several modern posts and read selections from many of them.

Tuesday evening, May 14, at the Bainbridge Christian Church.

The club was founded by a number of women who felt that a homemaker's group was needed to serve the community in special areas. During the war years of World War II the club was quite active in canning foods for the school lunch program at Bainbridge. This ambitious project led to many other areas of service to the community in the succeeding years.

Most of the charter members who were involved in the first summer of canning are still active members of the club. Several of those who have moved from the community plan to return for this opportunity to honor the club and to reminisce over the past years.

Former members of the club will be special guests of the evening as will Mrs. Betty Sendmeyer, County Extension Agent, Mrs. Paul Aker, county president, and Mrs. Jack Torr, county secretary.

The club has arranged for Mrs. James Risk of Roachdale to show her slides of lovely Switzerland that she and Mr. Risk gathered on their tour of Europe last year. A coffee hour will follow the program. Any past members may contact Mrs. Marian Lawson at Bainbridge.

Election defeat hits British Labor Party

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson Friday suffered a landslide defeat for his Labor Party at municipal elections and the country's most influential Labor press magnate demanded that he resign.

In what newspapers tagged "Wilson's Black Friday," results flowed in showing Labor had so far taken loss of 1,296 seats in country-wide municipal elections held in the wake of devaluation and massive disenchantment with the government.

Conservatives chalked up gains of 1,307 seats, with the difference made up in seats taken from Liberals and Independents.

The "Wilson must go" call from Cecil King, chairman of the giant International Publishing Corporation, sent the pound down to its lowest level since the gold crisis in March. The London Stock Exchange, always highly sensitive to any political excitement, registered falls in most sections as well.

The treasury announced King had resigned as a director of the Bank of England a few hours after his Daily Mirror newspaper published his front-page statement saying, "Mr. Wilson and his government have lost all credibility. All authority . . .

"We are now threatened with the greatest financial crisis in our history. It is not to be removed by lies about our reserves."

His resignation letter, dated Thursday, said he resigned because "I am becoming more and more involved in political controversy."

Labor's control of London municipal authorities disintegrated in a loss of 733 seats so far and the gain of only one seat. The Conservatives gained 735 and lost none.

In the provinces, Labor lost 563 seats and gained 12 while the Conservatives gained 572 and lost 13.

Opposition Conservative Party leader Edward Heath said, "Britain has spoken. The Labor Government must go."

Rep. Thomas is Rotary speaker

The Greencastle Rotary Club met Wednesday at the DePauw Union Building. President Hugh Henry welcomed visiting Rotarians and guests. Tom Ferree, of Indianapolis, was guest of Ray Brush and visiting rotarians were Ralph Graham of Indianapolis, James Bennett of Rensselaer. Other guests included the "honor" students of Greencastle High School.

Representative John Thomas, of Brazil, presented the Greencastle Rotary Club with the Indiana Flag that has been flown over the State Capital Building. President Hugh Henry presented the Flag to DePauw president, William Kerstetter to be displayed in the DePauw Union Building. Representative Thomas explained the beginning of the Indiana Flag was its seal, flower, and State tree.

Representative Thomas presented the program, which he discussed some of the issues that will be brought up in the Legislature. These issues were from a poll that was taken from the present legislature as they viewed the session ahead. Issues that will probably be coming up will be taxes, school financing, roads, up-dating the constitution, crime rate, highway safety, mental health, vocational education, para-mutual betting, time, and many other items that will be of much concern to the Indiana citizen.

Torso may be used but no dancing: Berg

The right hand shouldn't necessarily know what the left hand is doing and vice versa, says a member of DePauw University's music faculty.

Berg explains how conductors can get more from their performers and scores by augmenting the ever-present right hand with the face, body, and left hand.

"Generally speaking, the left hand should be independent of the right," Berg writes, "and in this manner it performs its most important functions." Berg said achieving this independence is difficult for most people. He prescribes exercises to develop this ability and spells out ways to use the left hand fruitfully.

As for the face and body in conducting, Berg says that some of our greatest conductors have started their careers by being economical with their motions. But before long, however, he states that "they have learned to put on quite a creditable ballet performance at every public appearance."

Berg said he feels the conductor's torso may be used to indicate interpretations, but it must be used judiciously. "The conductor should not be a dancer. The conductor's body should not move in accordance to his own response to the music but rather in a manner which will help the performers interpret the music properly."

Berg writes that he once knew a conductor who had a penchant for dancing performances. "Too many conductors are using this technique. I knew one conductor who was practically unable to conduct because of a very slightly sprained knee."

"The left hand, face, and body are not substitutes for the baton," according to Berg. One must practice their uses in order to execute them in a natural, relaxed way. If they are not performed in this manner they lose their force and might better be forgotten.

Berg is a professor of violin as well as symphony orchestra conductor. He attended Kansas State Teachers College, the Eastman and Juilliard Schools of Music and is on the staff of the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich.

"Shanty town" for Poor People's march

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first architect-designed "shanty town" in history will be erected in the nation's capital next week to house 3,000 participants in the Poor People's March.

Originally designated "The City of Hope," the instant village is now being called "Resurrection City" by leaders of the march.

Government officials and march leaders, who have been holding talks all this week on a suitable site for the encampment, were reported near agreement today on a tree-fringed park alongside the famous reflecting pool, between the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial.

Officials said the government is prepared to issue a permit for that site, restricting occupancy to 3,000 persons. Sewer and water lines are available in the area.

Although Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) officials like to refer to the encampment as a "shanty town," it will be a far cry from the makeshift buildings which that phrase implies.

Designed by D.R. John Wibenson, assistant professor of architecture at the University of Maryland, the "shanty town" will consist of prefabricated canvas and plywood shelters, erected in clusters around toilet facilities.

Volunteer workers have prefabricated parts for the shelters in a well-organized production line on the campus of Xavier College in suburban Silver Spring, Md.

The first marchers, due to arrive in the capital by bus Sunday afternoon, will assemble the shelters on the site next week.

The decision of SCLC officials to rename the site "Resurrection City" apparently resulted from a protest from a 55-year-old national medical center near Los Angeles, which is called The City of Hope.

Recount seen in Second District

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Observers indicated today a recount is possible in the close 2nd District Republican congressional race which unofficial returns showed was won by State Sen. Earl F. Landgrebe of Valparaiso by 80 votes.

Landgrebe was shown to have defeated nine other candidates, his plurality over his nearest rival being only 80 votes among more than 58,000 cast in the district.

Second in the unofficial standings was O. U. Sullivan, former Tippecanoe County Republican chairman and Lafayette city controller.

The vote showed Landgrebe 12,487, Sullivan 12,407, with the eight other candidates sharing the remaining 33,000 votes. State Rep. Quentin Blachly, also of Valparaiso, was third with 8,926.

Sullivan said it was "too early" to say whether a recount would be requested. He pointed out that returns from no county are official until they have been certified by a local canvassing board, and the district results are subject to auditing by the secretary of state's office.

The outcome was considered important because the 2nd District is considered heavily Republican, and the seat of the veteran Rep. Charles A. Halleck is at stake in the election next November.

Halleck has been in Congress since 1935. His decision to retire at the end of this year brought out a crowd of candidates hoping to succeed him, including 10 Republicans and 10 Democrats. The Democratic winner, by more than 3,000 votes, was Edward F. Kelly, a Lafayette attorney. That race drew about 50,000 voters.

Tippecanoe County nearly controlled both races. It gave Kelly a margin of nearly 2,400 over his nearest rival, only a few hundred votes short of his winning plurality. And it gave Sullivan a 5,300-vote margin over his nearest rival, Landgrebe.

Poland eases restrictions on diplomatic travelers

WARSAW (UPI)—Poland eased its travel restrictions on diplomats Friday but there was no official explanation of Thursday's ban on their leaving the capital. Diplomatic sources believed the ban was connected with Soviet troop movements near the borders of Czechoslovakia.

At least one embassy sent officials out Friday to see if they would be stopped and a diplomat from a Western embassy left with his family on a trip after being told he could travel freely. Western newsmen journeyed as far as 60 miles out of Warsaw without hindrance.

The troop movements were reported south of Krakow only a few miles from the Czech border as the official Polish Communist party newspaper Trybuna Ludu was attacking "revisionist" and "anti-Socialist trends" in Czechoslovakia and called for their authors to be "forcibly silenced."

A foreign ministry official told newsmen he would try for an explanation but that the government was "not obliged" to explain to newsmen why diplomats were stopped. Nor, he said, are the police required to tell why they tell a foreigner to turn back.

Diplomatic sources said the foreign ministry had not apologized for turning back the diplomats—a violation of diplomatic practice. The British Embassy said it had received an authoritative statement after it made a vigorous protest but it declined to make it public.

Some Western observers said the travel restrictions seemed to have been badly organized and perhaps were even a mistake. There was no official explanation but one diplomat was told by the foreign affairs ministry it was a misunderstanding.

Morton proposes dividend plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren Friday issued an order temporarily blocking the huge Northern Lines railroad merger.

Warren's order froze the merger until at least May 20. The full Supreme Court will hear arguments that day on the merger. It was scheduled to go into effect this morning.

The merger would weld the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad into one line, making it the longest railroad in the nation.

Originally, the Interstate Commerce Commission rejected the merger at the same time it approved the Penn-Central merger in April, 1966. Later the ICC reversed its decision.

Warren's action followed a request from the Justice Department Thursday for an injunction to block the merger.

Under the proposed merger, the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Chicago and Burlington and Quincy lines would be combined into a new company called the Northern Lines.

The merger was once turned down by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which later reversed itself and approved the combined operation. The Justice Department attacked the ICC decision as being "arbitrary and capricious" and showing an "abuse of discretion."

The department also attacked what it called the anticompetitive aspects of the merger.

In memoriam

In loving memory of our mother and Grandmother, Alma Gooch, who passed away May 12, 1964. I look upon my mother's hands And her life....and there I see Aging hours....lines of love Spent in molding me. I know these hands And the work they've done Now grown old with toil. I've known the beauty in flower-ers they grew And how they loved God's soil. I remember the times they've comforted me And helped me along the way And clasped together, humble in faith. They taught me how to pray. These hands....today Mine can no longer hold But their duties shall not shirk For they will be young and busy still. In Heaven....doing God's work. She could not paint or write a rhyme Her footprints on the sand of time As some distinguished women do; Just simple things of life she knew Like tucking little folks in bed Or soothing someone's aching head. She was no singer, neither blessed With any special loveliness To win applause and passing fame No headlines ever blazed her name. But OH She was a shining light To her loved ones day and night. Her home was her kingdom, She was its queen Her reign was faithful, honest, clean Impartial..Loving, just to each And everyone she sought to teach. Her name...There is no other In all the world so sweet as My Mother. Sadly missed by the Family

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE:

As Drapery Specialty cleaners, it is our policy to always ask our customers the age of their draperies when we pick them up. The older fabrics do require special handling, due to sun damage and routine wear. I wonder if your readers know that draperies which have yellowed from fumes, fading sun and oxygen in air will not come out in dry cleaning even if we cleaned them a hundred times?

As professionals, we suggest to our customers that they allow us to wet clean them, but we always ask the age first so that they can have extra special care.

Mrs. Rose Adamowski

Now, our dear Rose really threw us a good clue when she said to tell our cleaners how old our drapes were before dry cleaning, didn't she? Me, myself - and I never thought of that before! Could make a whole-of-a-difference in a cleaning job. We do thank her much for this wonderful hint.

Expert blames faulty gas lines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ralph Nader, who champions safety for consumers, said at a news conference here Friday there is a "strong suspicion" the explosion which killed more than 40 persons at Richmond, Ind., on April 6 was caused by faulty gas lines.

Nader said the gas company at Richmond was notified three days before the explosion that there were 55 leaks in its system. Nader said sections of the city's gas lines were laid in 1889 and no new lines had been installed since 1914.

The cause of the explosion has been under investigation since the day it occurred. Local authorities and the Indiana Public Service Commission have sought to learn the reason for the blast.

Nader spoke at a news conference featuring Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash.; Rep. John Moss, D-Calif.; Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., and Betty Furness, President Johnson's consumer affairs expert.

DEAR HELOISE:

For anyone who has a set of bunk beds and no longer uses the ladder, here's an idea.

I attached an 8x10 picture of each child (there's room for four) to a larger piece of heavy white art paper. Then stapled the art paper to the back of the ladder.

I had my husband hang some hooks on a wall in the children's room for the ladder.

Now I've got a lovely group frame which hangs horizontally and matches the furniture, too. I've received many, many compliments on it.

That's a cute idea, Jan. And you're a smart cookie to think of it. Thanks.

About ten years ago my husband built me a beautiful birch and mahogany kitchen. He told me to heat olive oil and brush it on all my new cutting and pastry boards until the wood wouldn't take any more.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: I hope this will help other housewives to get in the mood for spring housecleaning with the promise of getting their figure in shape in the process!

I've just finished washing my walls, windows and all the other things that require reaching and stretching. Lo and behold I've taken inches off my waist and hips.

Happy cleaning and good luck to you gals with inches to SPARE . . .

DEAR HELOISE:

Since I do alterations, I have to press a lot of hems and cuffs.

I've learned a way to do this without putting a shine on the cloth.

I put a piece of heavy brown paper bag over the material, moisten the top of the paper with a damp cloth and then iron. It leaves a nice press with no shine whatsoever.

This works well with all types of materials, especially with wool, and is excellent for trouser cuffs.

DEAR HELOISE:

We save our used coffee grounds, dry them and store in coffee cans kept in the garage.

My husband dampens them later and uses them to sprinkle over the garage floor before sweeping. It works great. Heloise—no dust when he sweeps, and a nice clean garage floor.

After sweeping, he empties it all on our flower beds, which is good for aerating the soil when you dig it in . . .

Heart transplant caution

BOSTON (UPI)—The world's top heart experts agree heart transplants will come some day but many of them urge caution until numerous uncertainties are overcome.

Dr. Dwight E. Harken Thursday urged "restraint" in performing heart transplants, saying that a human heart transplant is "experimental."

Dr. Christian Barnard, the South African surgeon who performed the world's first heart transplant, said, "It is difficult to look into the future, but I predict even Dr. Harken will be doing heart transplants in 10 years."

The discussions came at the close of the first annual John F. Kennedy Symposium on Recent Developments in Medicine and Surgery held at the Museum of Science.

"I want to emphasize that human heart transplants are experimental," said Dr. Harken, chief of the Division of Thoracic Surgery at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital here, explaining why heart transplants have not been performed in Boston.

First for Boston The world's first kidney and liver transplants were performed in this city.

Dr. Barnard, referring to Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the patient on whom he performed the world's third heart transplant, said, "One thing we must agree on—we had a man dying, but who today lives."

One of the world's eminent heart specialists, Dr. Paul Dudley White, who moderated the session, said, "I have not been worried about the legal and moral aspects of the transplants. I have confidence in the ethics of my colleagues. There's been too much ado about this."

The ultimate answer, however, is "prevention, not transplants," Dr. White said.

One of the dramatic highlights of the symposium for the some 400 medical professionals attending was a color film shown by Dr. Norman E. Shumway of Stanford University of a recent human heart transplant he performed.

Womans view

By GAY PAITNEY

UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Say the children have grown out of the nest and you want to get back into the job world. Say also that you once held a good position, but quit it to bring up the family and wonder now whether you can qualify. Is your age against you? What are your chances of success as a mature woman?

Excellent, says a woman who works constantly with personnel departments in business and industry. Office help, for instance, is especially at a premium.

But she warns, "when you're job hunting don't undersell yourself. Don't ask, 'What can I do?' and end up a salesgirl." This belittling of one's talents is one of the most frequent drawbacks of the mature woman going back to a job, says Bernice M. Gurvich, mother of three, clinical psychologist, and staff consultant with the Personnel Laboratory, Stamford, Conn.

Don't be afraid to look for the better jobs, she says. Remember that running a home and caring for the family is experience that the employer can use.

Take honest stock of your skills, Mrs. Gurvich advises. And perhaps the best place to look first is in the temporary job field. Here you learn quickly what skills the employer calls for and you find what you want to do long range while you also are getting back into a business routine.

Contact Lens' Scratches Harm

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If worn improperly, a contact lens can scratch the cornea of the eye and eventually cause blindness, warns an ophthalmologist at the University of California's San Francisco Medical Center.

"Once the thin protective layer covering the cornea is torn, the cornea is easily infected because it has no blood supply and thus lacks the white blood cells which fight off bacterial invasion," explains Dr. Samuel J. Kimura.

"A corneal infection which goes undetected for a long time can result in a vision-impairing scar or the loss of an eye," he adds.

A corneal scratch is often caused by improper insertion or removal of a contact lens or by rubbing the eye when the lens is in place. The person who wears his contacts for only the prescribed 10 or 12 hours a day will be alerted promptly by pain to the injury, Kimura says.

Wall Street chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thomson & McKinnon says the stock market has displayed an ability to "shrug off bad news" during its long uptrend.

Bache & Co. suggests that the market already may be in a consolidation period, but predicts that "any digestive phase will be shallow in nature" and encourage some bargain hunting. It advises investors to be cautious on the near term but constructive toward the intermediate-longer term and alert for buying opportunities during phases of weakness.

C. B. Richard, Ellis & Co., in suggesting that investors use periods of weakness to add to their positions in longer term accounts, notes that many swings now are occurring in individual stocks. The firm also says it may be "worthwhile" to watch for group movements as a basis for trading.

Extension news

By JERRY WILLIAMS
County Youth Agent

May 9, 1968

May is a very crucial time of the 4-H year. Many plans are being made that will set the course for 4-H for the coming year. This does not mean that there is no planning done previous to May, but that the final plans are completed. The 1968 Putnam County Fairbook is being readied to be sent to the printer. The final plans of the fair program are being made. Previews of the program indicate that there will be several new ideas incorporated in the fair. Also, the fairgrounds proper will be taking a different look. The maintenance program is being pushed ahead. This is necessary to keep the facilities in top shape. There have been many people who have abused the grounds and facilities which is causing an extra expense. It is hoped that this will be corrected. Fair president Vernie Ziener is putting alot of effort in the program as did the past president, Tim Ruark.

Many of the 4-H clubs are getting their start during May. We hope to have the Greencastle boys club in full operation within the next two weeks.

Another big activity that is taking shape during May is the 4-H Camp which is held at Shakamak State Park. This year's camp is earlier than in previous years. The camp date is June 9-12, which means that Camp registration must be taken during May. Putnam County will be camping with Vermillion, Parke, and Owen Counties. The fees this year will be the same as last year's, which is seven dollars plus one dollar if the camper wants to ride the bus to camp. The camp is open to all 4-H members.

Wednesday evening of this week, I met with some of the sheep breeders of the county to plan a 4-H sheep workshop which will be held Saturday, June 1. Members can bring their market or fat lambs to be shorn. Harley Sutherland of Cloverdale donates the shearing and the money from the wool goes into the County Sheep Breeder's Fund. This group promotes many of the sheep activities in the county such as the lamb barbecue. Also at the sheep demonstration on the first of June, there will be sessions on grooming, washing, showing, equipment, and etc. It should be a very educational day for all sheep members and their parents.

Thursday and Friday of this week I have been helping with the outdoor class that Albert Avery has for his class at Ridpath Grade School. This outdoor class is very educational from the standpoint that it helps the students to appreciate and understand nature. Others who helped with the program were Lyle Reedy of Soil Conservation Service, Professor Bob Loring of DePauw's Geology Department, Forrest Miller, Extension Forester, Paul Jackson, Area Extension Agent, and Mr. Avery's student teacher, Miss Deem. Mr. Avery puts much effort in this program which the students really appreciate.

Mice on Ice
DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)—The School of Veterinary Medicine at the University of California at Davis is using four renovated railroad refrigerator cars for laboratories housing mice used in cancer research.

A spokesman said the cars supply 400 square feet of space each, at a cost of about $10 a square foot. New laboratories would have cost about $35 a square foot, the spokesman said.

Control of Iris borers

LAFAYETTE—Iris borers can be controlled with DDT, report Purdue University extension entomologists.

Controls for this damaging iris pest should be applied during late April and early May before the larvae damage leaves and bore down into the plant rhizomes.

Iris borers hatch from eggs laid on the dried and twisted iris foliage the previous fall. The tiny borers crawl up new leaves and then bore into the interior, feeding on the tissue between the leaf surfaces. They bore downward in the leaf and finally into the rhizome. By mid-summer they finish maturing inside the rhizome. They are then about 1 3/4 inches long. Inside the rhizome they change into a pupa and later emerge as a moth to lay eggs for the coming generation.

For effective control, insecticides must be applied when the larvae are hatching. Therefore, make the first application, either spray or dust, when new iris leaves are five to six inches long. Repeat once a week until four applications have been made.

Use either five per cent DDT dust or spray at the rate of two teaspoons of DDT 25 per cent emulsifiable concentrate per gallon of water. Since iris leaves are waxy, controls are improved by adding a sticking or wetting agent to the spray mixture. Spray materials are available at your garden center.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN IRATE husband, fulminating over a pile of unpaid bills, choked over one in particular. "Do you mean to tell me," he hollered to his wife, "that you paid that fancy Park Avenue quack of yours twenty-five dollars just to paint your throat?" "What did you expect?" countered his wife haughtily. "Wallpaper?"

In Marcia Davenport's book of reminiscences, "Too Strong for Fantasy," she devotes a few words to Alexander Woolcott, as ill-mannered and snobbish a celebrity as ever gushed into a microphone. "While I was still at school," recalls Miss Davenport, "I used to come in on winter afternoons to find my mother and Woolcott playing backgammon. I was gauche and timid and loaded with every disadvantage of my age, including bands on my teeth and corrective spectacles. My mother would greet me lovingly and say to Woolcott, 'You know my daughter Marcia.' And time after time he would glance at me without recognition and say, 'Disaster, isn't it?' If my mother had realized how I felt she would have ordered him out of the house instead of thinking the brute funny."

Viet prices up

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet Cong offensive in Saigon has produced a 20 per cent increase in the cost of living, the South Vietnamese government reported Friday. A dozen duck eggs which cost 72 cents a week ago now sells for $1.20.

Officials said there was no shortage of food, and that enough was stockpiled in warehouses to take care of the city's 2.5 million people for at least five months.

The biggest problem was getting trucks into the city from the Mekong Delta and the area around Dalat where great quantities of vegetables are grown. At least 50 trucks carrying vegetables have been delayed for three days on the northern outskirts, and most of the vegetables have spoiled.

Authorities slapped a freeze on the price of milk, sugar and rice but the prices of other foodstuffs have skyrocketed.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:

North East South West
1♦ 1♠ 1NT Pass
3NT

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Ardent disciples of the game may get a kick out of this deal from a par contest. The hand has a neat double twist.

Superficially it would seem that declarer can make nine tricks after a spade lead—the three diamond tricks he can develop and two tricks in each of the other suits.

But when the spade is led and dummy plays the eight, East is supposed to be clever enough not to win with the king. Instead he plays the nine, forcing declarer to win with the jack or queen.

When South now leads a diamond, West steps up with the king, plays another spade, and the curtain descends on declarer. East's spades are established and since he still has the ace of diamonds as an entry, South must go down one.

Note that if East wins the opening spade lead with the king and returns a spade, South makes the contract with normal play. West lacks a spade to return when he takes his king of diamonds, and declarer ends up scoring the aforementioned nine tricks.

However, the nature of the deal is such that even if East ends up winning the first spade lead, the defense can still recover its equilibrium and defeat the contract by a most unusual play later on.

Let's assume East takes the king and returns a spade at trick two. Declarer wins and leads a diamond to dummy, West following low. East takes the jack with the ace and plays a third round of spades.

On this trick West discards the king of diamonds! Declarer cannot recover from this lethal stroke. There is no way he can produce nine tricks without establishing the diamonds, and since East's 10-3 can easily cope with dummy's Q-8-5-2, South must go down one.

A remarkable hand. First East gets a chance to shine by refusing to win the first trick, and then, if he slips, West recovers for him by discarding his high diamond.

Zounds!

The figures did not include the big Viet Cong offensive against Saigon which began last Sunday.

The report covering the seven-day period ended last Saturday said allied forces killed 2,264 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Television in review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The television ratings indicate that CBS-TV's Andy Griffith Show was the nation's most popular regular series in the past season. Second was the weekly series of the same network's indestructible Lucille Ball. This remarkable lady not only manages to retain her peak television popularity, but is also currently appearing with Henry Fonda in a family movie comedy that seems to be a smash hit, "Your, Mine and Ours," about a widower with 10 children who marries a widow with eight. As it happens, the format of Miss Ball's video series in the coming season calls for her to portray a widow with two children. The youngsters will be played by her real-life offspring, Lucie and Desi. The third highest-rated series of the past season also belongs to CBS-TV, "Gunsmoke" and fourth place is a tie among CBS-TV's "Bonanza" and "Family Affair" and NBC-TV's "Bonanza." Of the top six series, four—the Andy Griffith and Lucille Ball shows, "Gunsmoke" and "Family Affair"—are Monday night attractions on CBS-TV, making it video's most potent lineup. The seventh most popular series was the Red Skelton Show. Dean Martin's program was eighth, Jackie Gleason's ninth, and NBC-TV's Saturday Night Movies rounded out the top 10. "Gunsmoke," it might be noted, was set for cancellation by CBS-TV before last season began, but affiliate stations complained, got it reinstated—and the classic Western had its greatest success in years in the ratings. Not a single new series made the top 10—or top 15. The highest-rated freshman entry, CBS-TV's "Gentle Ben," placed 19th. "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," NBC-TV's very hot new series, came in 21st—despite the head-on competition of "Gunsmoke" and Miss Ball, an impressive achievement. Other strongly rated new series included "Ironside," which finished 26th; the Carol Burnett Show, which tied for 27th with "Dragnet"; "It Takes a Thief," in a tie with "Lassie" for 30th, and "The Mothers-in-Law," which placed 37th. The considerable success of midseason replacement series is also notable in the ratings. The most spectacular, of course, was "Batman" several years back, but its dominance was brief. Then last year's midseason produced the Smothers Brothers show and the revival of "Dragnet," and both series continue to flourish. This past midseason marked the debut of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" on a regular basis, and also of "It Takes a Thief," in which Robert Wagner stars as a James Bond type.

about My MOTHER

Most all other things come by twos, threes, or even by dozens. See the roses, the stars, the sunsets.

Ah, there's brothers and sisters, too, and uncles and aunts and cousins a plenty. But in all the whole big world there's just one mother. There's much more about my mother and good it all must be. In fact she's as good as goodness is, and that's enough for me. Her words are kind, her faith is strong, and her hope as high as the highest tree. You can see from here that she is a dear, — she means everything to me. Not one single emotion comes nearer the divine than my mother's love for me. She is the soaring cloud of radiant rapture that lifts me to new attempts and the strength I need to see me through. I'm taking my mother to church this Mother's Day -- what about you???

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.
